15 September 2002

To: NACBS Council Members

From: Laura Tabili, Editor, British Studies Intelligencer (tabili@u.arizona.edu)

Re: 2002-2003 Annual Report

Attached pleased find documents reflecting University of Arizona accounts related to the Intelligencer.

We sent out a total of 1040 hard copies of the Intelligencer in Fall 2001, most of which went to scholars in the United States. The balance went out to the following destinations:

Canada	88
Britain	50
Japan	6
Australia	8
Ireland	3
France	2

In addition, one of each issue went to the following: Cyprus, Finland, Israel, Jamaica, South Korea, Switzerland and Turkey, and four extra to the Institute of Historical Research.

Skyrocketing costs and deteriorating service from U of A's campus Printing and Mailing service, as reported to the Council in Fall 2001, continued in Winter 2001-2002. It became clear that the final projected year of the hard-copy Intelligencer, 2002-2003, could only be produced with a hefty cash subvention. In consultation with Brian Levack and Marc Baer I produced only a disk version of the Spring Intelligencer, forwarded to Web-master Peter Hansen. Our financial dealings with the University of Arizona thus ceased in Spring 2002, re: which I enclose the relevant paperwork. (The Council will see that we were once again double-billed!)

My Successor as Editor:

As indicated by the enclosed correspondence, Gail Savage has assumed editorship of the now Web-based BSI, as of the upcoming Fall 2002 issue. I remain available to do whatever I can to smooth the transition to a new BSI editor.

May I conclude by thanking various Council members with whom I have worked over the years. It has been an honor to serve.